

OLAF SELL BIOGRAPHYOLAF SELL

Olaf's passion is to work with leadership teams and curious entrepreneurs to inspire them to create meaningful, exciting and exceptional organizations with their environment - for people, society and the desired business value.

Since 2010, he has been supporting leadership teams, management teams and individual leaders with practical, proven tools and methods. Olaf designs individual processes that lead to a meaningful way of collaboration - supporting individual people, teams and organizations to grow.

As a systemic business coach and consultant, it is in his core to use different perspectives in order to explore, understand, and experiment with adaptable, agile approaches. By creating and establishing processes, he enables executives and leaders to design and establish a growth path: for them individually and for their teams and organization.

Using the Gravitas Impact Growth Roadmap, he identifies the necessary resources, tools, methods that work in co-creative processes to initiate solid adaptable solutions. These first-class coaching tools have proven themselves in environments of change and growth in many thousands of businesses.

Olaf loves spending time with family and friends, being in the mountains and sharing this passion with them. When he needs alone time, or to clear his head, he puts on his running shoes and heads to the woods around Munich. He also loves exploring the German and Austrian Alps on his mountain bike or motorcycles as well as reading books and newspapers and chatting with friends to relax and generate new ideas.
