

TOM GARRITY BIOGRAPHYTOM GARRITY

Tom is the managing partner of Compass Point Consulting, LLC. He is a family business strategist specializing in growth and transition strategies. Services include organizational development, strategic planning, succession planning, exit planning, and family business governance.

He also has extensive experience in meeting facilitation and board talent assessment and recruitment. He started the company in 2003. Tom has a hands-on coaching style and stays engaged with clients for at least 12 months, ensuring implementation of the plans he has helped design.

He brings his clients over 20 years of experience as an executive leader with middle market companies and nearly 15 years as a coach to the same. Tom's industry experience includes industrial manufacturing, food processing, construction, contracting, technology, and professional services. Tom is a Gravitas Impact Four Decisions® Certified Coach and also a Certified Exit Planning Advisor with the Exit Planning Institute.

When not in the trenches with clients, Tom enjoys golf, tennis, hanging out with his family, and a fall afternoon watching college football.

Executive Summary:

Tom Garrity began his career with a family business that grew from $20 million to well north of $200 million during his 11-year tenure, where he was responsible for building out the east coast distribution network, and then as a territory sales manager. He moved on to become the president and CEO of two different, privately-held manufacturing companies and has core competencies in start-up strategy, business development, executive management, finance, government contracting, and family business governance.
